LITURGICAL NOTES

When is Sunday Compline Sung?

Compline of Sunday is sung on all Feasts of the 1st and 2nd class. Feasts of the 1st class also have 1st Vespers which initiate the Feast on the evening before. (For example, First Vespers of Christmas are sung on the evening of December 24.) This why Compline of Sunday is sung this coming Tuesday, April 30. It falls after the First Vespers of St. Joseph the Worker, which Feast is celebrated on May 1.

Extra Collects

Those who attentively follow the liturgy may have noticed that priests of the Institute of Christ the King often add an extra Collect, Secret and Postcommunion to the Mass of the day. These are the prayers pro Papa (for the Pope) found in the Roman Missal. In the Institute, these prayers constitute an oratio imperata (a “commanded prayer,” issued from a competent authority, such as the Bishop or Superior General), by which we apply our Constitutions by praying for the Holy Father. The days when these prayers are forbidden are few (such as 1st class feasts); for the sake of brevity, we do not list these extra collects in the liturgical calendar column of this bulletin.

In addition, a priest may add an extra collect of his choosing on liturgical days of the 4th class. On the days where it is permitted, Canon Silvey will sometimes choose an extra collect from the Missal, such as pro seipso Sacerdote (for the priest himself), contra persecutores Ecclesiae (against the persecutors of the Church), contra persecutores et male agentes (against persecutors and evildoers), ad postulandam serenitatem (for serenity), and pro remissionem peccatorum (for the remission of sins).

Cardinal Burke's visit – Thank you!

Dear Faithful:

It was a great grace and joy for us to receive a Prince of the Church at St. Leo Oratory on our Patronal Feast Day of St. Leo the Great in the person of His Eminence, Raymond Leo Cardinal Burke, who is certainly, a great model of faith and charity in the world today. The Cardinal was very happy to have visited.

My deep gratitude goes to the many persons who contributed to the success of the Pontifical Mass and reception. Among them, there were many volunteers, as well as some professionals offering their service free of charge or at reduced rates in honor of the occasion. Thanks to St. Catherine of Sienna Parish, the reception volunteers, the caterers, the photographers, the musicians, the altar boys and their families, the ushers, and all who contributed. I am particularly grateful for the support of my confreres in the Institute, many of whom came to direct and serve the Pontifical Mass.

Sincerely in Christ our King,
Canon David Silvey
