Eleventh Sunday After Pentecost

At that time, Jesus going out of the coasts of Tyre, came by Sidon to the sea of Galilee, through the midst of the coasts of Decapolis. And they bring to Him one deaf and dumb, and they besought Him that He would lay His hand upon him. And taking him from the multitude apart, He put His fingers into his ears, and spitting, He touched his tongue; and looking up to heaven, He groaned and said to him: Ephpheta, which is, Be thou opened: and immediately his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he spoke right. And He charged them that they should tell no man: but the more He charged them so much the more did they publish it; and so much the more did they wonder, saying: He hath done all things well; He hath made both the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak.

Little Lesson in Church Music

Many times, we think of music generally as being sung in unison or in four parts, feeling that any other arrangement is strange. But the treasury of Sacred Music contains countless examples of music for 2 or 3 voices, as well as for more than 4. Orlando Lassus wrote many duets. William Byrd, the English composer and contemporary of William Shakespeare and St. Francis de Sales, wrote Masses for three, four and five voices, among many other works. Thomas Tallis even wrote a famous piece called Spem in Alium for 40 voices. One special kind of two-part singing is called "organum", which you can recognize by its 'medieval' sound.

Lord Jesus Christ, You have destroyed the power of death and given the hope of eternal life for body and soul.
