Today July 21st, Maysoon Khair will be at our church representing over a hundred Christian families who make their livelihood through the selling of their hand carved olive wood religious articles.

After both masses there will be a display of these beautiful hand carved religious items; such as nativity scenes, crucifix, rosaries, last supper and many other beautiful religious statues.

Please stop by and look over the carvings that are available and help support this self-help project to keep the Children and the Christians living in the Holy Land.

Thank you and God Bless you.

September 27-29: Pilgrimage?

On September 27-29 pilgrims will walk 70 miles in 3 days, towards Auriesville.; Shrine of the French* Missionaries, first martyr in North America... If I first planned to form a Brigade from St Paul's Oratory, things have changed since I am asked to chaplain a Brigade for another Pilgrimage, in Oklahoma, 2 weeks later... And I cannot easily be away so often...

For those who started to think about doing it, I encourage you to do it. Pilgrimage is an old traditional thing; and no one have the right to call himself a "trad" if he has never "pray with his feet" in a pilgrimage... And once in a life time is not enough...

Please, go. Sanctify yourself. Sanctify your family. Pray for the Oratory. Pray for America... There are a lot of reason to go...

The wisdom of St. Francis de Sales for a troubled world - 1

If anyone came to me with the following request: what is the book on spiritual life that you would recommend not only for beginners, but also for people who have already taken their first steps? Without a moment's hesitation, I would say; Saint Francis of Sales' Introduction to the Devout Life, a book published in the XVII century which, I believe, never was out of print. There is a profound reason for it: not only is it classical, (above time and fashion), but it has a value for people of the most varied backgrounds. It is like bread: it will never be outdated.

This great saint's message is couched in such gracious terms that he combines depth of thought, and gentle charm.

One typical temptation of beginners in spiritual life, is to feed their soul on mystical literature, such as the Dark Night of the Soul of St. John of the Cross. Its very title attracts a large number of beginners convinced that they know by personal experience what this great saint and mystic is referring to. Being spiritually immature, they easily fall prey to an exaltation that favors dangerous illusions. St. Francis of Sales' book combines profound spiritual wisdom, with what I shall term "holy sobriety". Such spiritual food prevents one from falling into the very many illusions which are traps set by the devil to make many people endorse spiritual fallacies and leave the safe road of humility.

All I intend to do in this brief essay is to meditate on one chapter in Book 3, which, in my personal life, I have found to be a gold mine of insights.

It refers to our attitude toward the faults and sins of others -- a topic of crucial importance because all of us have to deal with it, and very few are aware of the only valid Christian response. Any sin calls for tears because first and foremost, it is an offense of God. Had men not sinned, Christ would not have been crucified. This should be our primary concern.
